TAX-PAYERS LEAGUE IN MEETING

Large and Enthusiastic Meeting Reported Held at Courthouse Monday
Evening.

There was a large and enthusiastic gathering of tax-payers and others at the county courthouse Monday evening, with President R. C. Engman in the chair and A. R. Hart, secretary.

It was reported the organization is progressing and the request was sent forth that every tax-payer be urged to join, with a view that tax-payers may be associated with a view of co-operating to help bring down the tax figures to a level more in keeping with the present times.

In connection with the meeting held Monday, The Echo was handed the following for publication:

"The Hancock County Tax-Payers League is not a political organization, nor, is it affiliated with any political organization in any way, manner, shape or form.

"It is an organization of the tax-payers for the purpose of encouraging economic, efficient and business administrations in our State, county and municipal government.

"The real estate taxpayer bears the burden of the expenses of operating the local, county and state government, and pays taxes every year without an argument, no matter what the rate might be. As a taxpayer you have a right to know if the various funds are judiciously and efficiently expended.

"To accomplish the purpose of this organization, it must have the co-operation and support of all tax-payers in the county.

"The membership is one dollar a year—join it and make it a success."

The next meeting will be held Monday night April 18, at 7:30 P. M. at the courthouse—bring your friends.

March Schwartz and Frank Hoffman, all-American football players, received professional football invitations and coaching offers but both will stay in college and "hit the books" while serving as assistant coaches here until next year.

Billy Sullivan, who played baseball with the Chicago White Sox last year and who is to join the club again in June, still is in school and plans to return next year.

NEW MANAGEMENT FOR HOTEL WESTON BAY ST. LOUIS, MISS.

Mrs. Abigail Bourgeois Becomes Sole Lessee of Well-Known Bay Hostelry.

Taking effect April 1, Mrs. Abigail Bourgeois, heretofore in charge of the dining room of the hotel, assumed full and active management of Hotel Weston for the stockholders.

Mrs. Bourgeois, well-known and capable Bay St. Louis woman, has been operating the dining room of the Weston for a term of three years and three months and her experience at the Weston is by no means limited.

In turn, succeeding Mr. Waldo Otis, the progressive and ever most courteous lessee of the hotel, Mrs. Bourgeois has made some changes in the personnel of the hotel management, however, not to a very appreciable extent. Mr. Argyll Mitchell will remain as chief in the office and Miss Mary Bourgeois will in future be in the office part of the time every day.

Mr. Otis, who heretofore has given the hotel the benefit of his business ability and experience, will in future confine all of his time to the work of locally representing the Standard Oil Company, which responsibility he assumed some months ago. The change is made that he in order may devote all of his time both to his farming interest and the Standard business as well.

Mrs. Bourgeois stated to the Echo reporter that in time she plans to make a number of improvements in the hotel, featuring interior renovation and that she will continue to make the dining room one of the outstanding features of the Weston.

Hotel Weston is one of the best known hostels in the state. It has always been conducted on a high and successful plan, catering to the public in that manner that meant a return visit.

Mrs. Bourgeois, the new lessee, is to be congratulated on acquiring so representative a business and in advance we bespeak for her a successful career.

Death of Mrs. John Rexach at New Orleans Home Last Saturday

Bay St. Louis residents in particular and others residing elsewhere who might read this will learn with more than ordinary regret of the demise of Mrs. John Rexach, who with her husband and two children, Roland and Adele, resided in Bay St. Louis for quite a number of years, occupying as their own home the "Kenwood" estate, on the beach.

Mrs. Rexach, born Delphine Lam-bessy, was in her 64th year and her death at the family home, New Orleans, which occurred Saturday night, April 2, at 11:10 o'clock, was the culmination of a long siege of illness, which had deprived her of her sight as a result. The funeral took place Monday afternoon at Greenwood Cemetery, New Orleans.

She is survived by her husband, son Roland, and daughter Adele, now Mrs. J. K. Baker of Homer, La., and two grandchildren, also of Homer.

Mr. and Mrs. Rexach resided here up to about 1919, moving to New Orleans. While a Bay St. Louis resident Mrs. Rexach was most active in church work and socially prominent. She was a most devoted member of the Catholic faith and known for her excellent Christian character. Her virtues were many, practicing charity in all its phases.

Bay St. Louis friends and acquaintances of the Rexach family, so well and prominently identified here, offer deepest sympathy in hour of bereavement.

MAYOR OF HARTFORD, CONN., COMPLIMENTS BAY CITY ON OCCASION

Marking Thirteenth Annual International Flower Show
—Lorraine Flower Shop
Supplies Flowers

Hon. Wm. J. Rankin, mayor of Hartford, Conn., presented to the editor of The Sea Coast Echo last Saturday a box containing giant pink carnations and bunches of most delicately-colored sweet pea.

Mayor Rankin wired the Echo: "Upon this occasion, the opening of our city of Hartford of the 13th International Flower show, it is with pleasure that I extend the good will of the people of Hartford to the people of Bay St. Louis by saying it with flowers by wire F. T. D. Mercury way. This flower token is made possible through the world-wide organization of bonded members of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association."

The gift and courtesy was in recognition of the opening in Hartford of the 13th International Flower Show. Between 4000 and 5000 editors and mayors in cities and country received similar gifts of flowers, marking the occasion.

The gift of such wonderfully beautiful flowers, and of such liberal proportion came from the Lorraine Flower Shop, with shops at Pass Christian, Gulfport and Biloxi, where the choicest flowers for any and all occasions and decorative plants may always be found and purchased at most reasonable prices.

It has been said poets are born. We believe it applies to artists and business people who cultivate and sell flowers. They know how where others would not. They render a service the equal of which cannot be found. The Lorraine Shops are the pride of the Mississippi Gulf Coast. From an humble beginning at Pass Christian this business, with service and supply has been built up to coast-wide recognition and service.

The flowers, gift of the Mayor of Hartford, coming from the Lorraine Flower Shop, were the most attractive and gorgeous collections of select flowers it has been our good fortune to come across.

Martin, sales manager of the Edwards Motor Sales Co.

Representative Smith Of Harrison Seeks To Put Ban On Bill Boards

The Sea Coast Echo acknowledges receipt of copy of a bill introduced in the lower house of the State legislature by its good friend, George R. Smith, designed to prohibit billboard advertising along the public highways particularly at highway intersections or in proximity to curves in roadways.

The bill which is comprehensive carries a penal clause permitting fines up to as high as $100 in case of violation. The bill following its introduction was referred to the house committee on roads, ferries and bridges.

The title of the bill is as follows: An act to prohibit the erecting or maintaining of any billboard advertising or similar structure along any road outside the limits of any city or town within 200 feet of the intersection of any two or more roads, or within 200 feet of the intersection of such road with a railroad, or along such road at any curve or bend so as to obstruct the vision of persons using such road, and providing penalties for the violation of this act.

It is a great pity our beautiful coastal line is marred at different places and frequently in most scenic spots, with unsightly bill boards, to say nothing of the dangerous phase as alluded to above. Billboards at curves and corners form a dangerous hazard.

Peter Ramond native of Bay St. Louis, son of the late Jean Ramond, pioneer of Bay St. Louis, and a brother of the late Ferdinand and John Ramond, well-known residents of this city, died at his home in New Orleans at an early hour Thursday morning, following a siege of illness.

As the deceased was well and favorably known and resided here during the period of a long and useful life, his funeral will be a large one this morning and his death will be generally regretted.

HANCOCK CIRCUIT COURT TERM ENDS; WOMAN GETS $3000

Teche Lines Inc., Loses Suit;
Hode and Favre to Harrison County.

A jury verdict of $3,000, the full amount sued for, was returned in Hancock County circuit court here Friday in the case of Sadie Lee Mason, colored, against the Teche Lines, Inc., operators of a line of motor busses throughout the south.

The plaintiff brought her suit for personal injuries sustained in a bus automobile collision occurring near Purvis while she was a passenger on one of the defendant's busses en route from Atlanta to Carriere.

Trial of this case concluded the work of the court for the regular two weeks' March term. The term was featured by the sensational murder trial of Zeno Hode, who earlier last week was acquitted by a jury on a charge of having murdered Robert M. Buck, Gulfport prohibition officer.

Hode and Favre Transferred.

Zeno Hode, acquitted last Wednesday by a Hancock county jury on a charge of murder in connection with the killing of Federal Prohibition Agent Robert M. Buck still held on federal prohibition law violation, charges has been transferred from the Hancock county jail at Bay St. Louis to the Harrison county jail at Gulfport, where he is being held in default of $10,000 bail.

Oscar Favre, 25, son-in-law of Hode, who was with the latter at the liquor still at the time of the Buck shooting, is also in jail at Gulfport in default of bail in the same amount on federal charges.

Hode and Favre were brought to jail at Gulfport following Hode's acquittal in the Hancock county circuit court on the murder charge.

by the Bradford Freight Lines of New Orleans released one machine belonging to that firm which had been seized by the patrol officers.

The Air Reduction Sales Corporation, which had one machine seized for not having paid the required rate, paid $423 and obtained release of its impounded truck and trailer, it was stated.

Continuing their campaign to enforce the statutory provisions relative to the amount that must be paid per ton carrying capacity on trucks and trailers engaged in commercial traffic, the road patrol officers early today seized the second machine of the Interstate Motor Express Inc., of New Orleans and it along with another of its company's freight hauling trucks is being held pending payment of $100 each, the amount alleged to be due.

In discussing their campaign, the officers pointed out that investigation had disclosed that numerous trucks and trailers operated by these freight-hauling concerns were carrying four and five ton loads on the county highways while paying privilege to operate only a one or a one and a half ton machine.

BAY ROTARY AND COAST PRESS CLUB IN JOINT ASSEMBLY

Wm. M. Colmer, Rotarian,
And Clayton Rand, Press
Club, Principal
Speakers.

With a banquet table set for fifty, and decorated in pink and orchard, Hotel Weston was the scene Monday night of a joint meeting of the Bay St. Louis Rotary Club with the Mississippi Coast Press Club.

The event was of Coast-wide interest since it included ladies and gentlemen of the press from Bay St. Louis to Pascagoula inclusive. It was an unusual meeting, said the presiding officer of the evening for the two clubs, that two separate organizations should meet as one, and even though separate bodies each worked in the interest of service, following the Rotary motto that "He profits Most Who Serves Best." Both clubs in main measure represented service and said that it was meet and just fitting that such men and women who dedicate their daily lives to service should assemble in fellowship and in general fraternization.

The invocation was delivered by Joseph O. Mauffray, followed by the general singing of the first verse of "America." A musical program interspersed the various speaking numbers, these were presented under the auspices of Mrs. George R. Rea, of Bay St. Louis, vice president Mississippi Federated Music Clubs, for both clubs. The numbers included a number by Mrs. Orrie Pollard, reading by Mrs. Henry W. Ososnach, solo numbers by Mrs. Leo E. Kenney, all of Bay St. Louis. Pianist, Mrs. Winfield Partridge.

Hon. Wm. M. Colmer, of Pascagoula, was the guest of honor of both clubs and principal speaker of the evening, engaging his audience with a preliminary of some ten and fifteen minutes and then speaking of the four major crisis in the history of America, the revolutionary war, civil war, world-wide war and the recent continued depression. He said men in history had proven themselves of great courage and conviction and came out the victor in each struggle and that this instance would by no means prove the exception.

His splendid address was received with much enthusiasm and it was fitting that he was formally introduced by his townsman, Hon. W. T. Sparkman, of the Pascagoula Chronicle-Star.

Clayton Rand, to whom Mr. Colmer paid fitting tribute as an orator, who had spoken previously in facetious vein, thumbnail sketches of wit and oratory, as it were, preceded the speaker of the evening and at the conclusion of the last Rotary song, bespoke a benediction of purest gem, classical in its source of inspiration, asking that the peace and blessing of Allah be that of one and all.

Mrs. Abigail Bourgeois of the Hotel Weston not only set a beautiful table and decorated the surrounding spaces with native flowers, but served a splendid menu, sustaining a well-known reputation. The table was set in "T" shape. On the speakers' table were two baskets of pink carnations and wistaria with maiden hair fern trailing the entire double table in broken line.

Officers of both clubs, who were formally introduced at the beginning of the banquet follows: Ed. Lipscomb, vice president; Miss Lena Fentress, secretary-treasurer, Coast Press Club.

Leo W. Seal, vice president; A. A. Scafield, secretary-treasurer, Bay Rotary Club.

In turn Leo W. Seal introduced Chas. G. Moreau, president of both clubs.

Mayor Traub following his official introduction delivered the welcome address.

Program committee, Rotary Club: Dr. Jas. A. Evans, chairman; George R. Rea and Dr. C. M. Shipp. Dr. Evans announced the various program numbers for the evening.

The affair was one of both beauty and interest, graced by the presence of so many women of grace and culture, and will ever be remembered by members of both clubs as not only a local affair but one of interest to the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

Forty-seven guests present included Mr. and Mrs. George E. Pitcher, Mr. and Mrs. Leo E. Kenney, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Lawton, of New Orleans and Waveland; Mrs. C. G. Moreau, Mrs. J. A. Evans, Mrs. G. S. Boyd, of Dresden, Tenn.; Mrs. Henry Ososnach, Mrs. John Damborino, Miss Leo W. Seal, Mrs. Ella Maybin, Miss Mae Edwards, Mrs. George R. Rea, Mrs. (Dr.) C. M. Shipp, Mayor Chas. Traub, Sr., Mrs. C. C. FEEDING THE POOR.

OVER two hundred and fifty families residing in Hancock county have filed their names with the proper authority for the receiving of flour, to be given our people in distress through the kindness of the American Red Cross and distributed through the instrumentality of the Bay St. Louis Chamber of Commerce.

Two hundred families might mean one thousand or more, probably more and has given the Chamber of Commerce and other co-workers lots of work in co-ordinating the details of distribution.

George R. Rea, treasurer and chairman, says this supply will be here within a comparative short time and should prove a means of alleviating much inconvenience.

With our sawmills closed and other local industries gone out of existence, to say nothing of the depression which has paralyzed every avenue of self-support, in the interior, it is no wonder so many of our people have been out of employment and still find nothing to do. They are consuming all within reach and their humble homes to be taken away because of taxation and then an extra tax by the legislature to be added, forms picture surely no one wishes to contemplate.

However, these people are hungry; they are deserving. They do not work because there is none to be had. With the Red Cross to the rescue with its ample supply of flour, it can well be termed a God-send. And blessed be the people who are giving their time and labor free of any charge or hopes of remuneration. Their only reward is to see that the needy will get the bread they are crying for without stretched hands. Surely the Red Cross is the Greatest Mother of All.

WAVELAND TO THE FORE.

WAVELAND plans to advertise for bidders by contractors for the building of hard-surfaced street ways in that town and ere the summer will have arrived that thriving and progressive sister community of Bay St. Louis will complete an artery of finest of streets, joining with the beach highway.

We know of no city of the size of Waveland that has made such rapid strides within so comparative short a time. Waveland is financially in better shape than the average town and its administration is both progressive and economic. It has been said of Waveland that within the past two years more residential structures have been constructed within its confines than anywhere else on the Coast.

It is both interesting and refreshing to note of the success of the adjoining city; to note that it has had both a successful administration and that its people have prospered as to make possible the things that have come to pass.

Waveland's hard-surfaced streets will be an accomplished fact within a short time. We shall anticipate the realization of these plans with more than ordinary interest.

CARL MARSHALL.

AN EDITORIAL reproduced in the columns of The Sea Coast Echo last week from the Jackson News, headed "Carl Marshall," has brought forth more commendation than would have been ordinarily expected even knowing Carl Marshall as we and everyone else does. A man of learning, a genius which the State cannot do without, a constructive force and a man of such sincere and magnetic personality it is no wonder the article has been endorsed and the hope expressed that he will again be restored to practice before the State bar. There is no doubt he has been harshly dealt with, not to criticize our courts. The fact that Carl Marshall has suffered the things he is charged with in silence and points no finger to others possibly more guilty than has ever been charged is only another indication of his fine character and sterling qualities.

Our own prophecy: Better times will come when they come. X marks the spot.

Voting women have not reformed politics, but we doubt if they have done any harm.

There ought to be a special section, Mr. Satan, for people who forget to return borrowed books.

We are not inclined to run the world, except one small section of it, and that is ourselves.

Some critics of government blame the unemployment in public offices for the high cost of government.

The statement that the average man gets mad six times a week shows that some of them are above average.

Correct this sentence: "Mr. Editor, I don't see how you print your paper for the price that you charge."

April is a good month to make a start towards beautifying the old home town. Every property owner can do a part in this campaign.

The prosperity of the country depends, largely, upon a prosperous agricultural population, and if you think the farmers have had any prosperity in the past decade, talk to one of them.

THE LINDBERGH BABY.

THE AMERICAN people are still on the tip-toe awaiting further development in the kidnaping case of the Lindbergh baby, the most famous in the world, and each successive issue of the daily press from New Orleans to this section brings encouraging news only to prove later disappointing.

Within the past week or more the press has published more conflicting news about the return of "Little Lindy" than would seem reasonable. Morning issue of the daily press tells "Baby to Be Returned at 8 P. M." Evening press contradicts this statement by another story that baby's return is only conjectured and plans have gone awry.

However, reputable representatives from Norfolk apparently in touch with the abductors have reported baby well and alive. This alone is encouraging and revives hopes. It has been a secret feeling with the American people that the baby had not survived that night when it was taken from its crib in a warm room, and sick as it was exposed to the cold of that section. These conditions gave rise to dire speculation and apprehension. It was thought, in secret, baby had died and that the captors could not produce the prize, regardless of the willingness of the parents to pay the ransom sum demanded.

It is possible when this issue of the Echo will have reached its readers Little Lindy will have been returned. It is more probable, however, that Baby Lindy is still within the keeping of strangers, but nearer to his release. The fact, we conclude, that baby's return must be made under such means as to defeat subsequent apprehension, requires not only cunning and many mediums of go-betweens but time and plenty of it. It is understood the price of ransom has been more than doubled since the original sum of $50,000. Be this as it may, the parents are not negotiating price. It is baby they wish, and in this desire they are joined by the people of the nation.

"Little Lindy" has won the sympathy of the people. He has enkindled a shrine within the hearts of every true blue American.

AMUSEMENT TAX.

MISSISSIPPI LEGISLATURE has passed an amusement tax which imposes an extra charge to every purchaser of theater tickets in Mississippi, unless in such instance where the management will absorb the charge, which is only likely in the charge made for children's tickets.

The movie house has been called the poor man's theater, while true it is everybody's, and furnishes one and all with pure, wholesome and healthy entertainment. There is a picture for every mind, for every age, for every person it would seem.

Because the State of Mississippi has debauched public funds in the past under the guise of this and that, appropriation for things never heard of some decade years ago, the poor man today cannot with his family enjoy so small an amusement as an evening at the picture show unless he pays tribute to the State. This is by no means a luxury tax. Both the rich and poor alike, the latter class in preponderant majority, attend movie picture theaters and perhaps with the new tax imposed much deprivation of this only pleasure left will result.

Surely the theaters will not pay this tax, even though it was directed at them. For, like in all cases where a special tax is levied, it is the poor man, who, in the last analysis, pays the tax.

With the extra sales tax in Mississippi that seems inevitable, the question arises, how will the people bear the burden, from where will they get the money?

At both city and county tax sales Monday the bulk of property offered for sale to the public remained unsold and went over to the city and State. There are two years in which to redeem the property and penalties are smaller than formerly. In the city of Bay St. Louis possibly only a half dozen parcels of property was sold. The balance went to the State.

Again, where will it all end?

HONEY ISLAND.

NEWSPAPERS these days are publishing little journeys for automobile owners, where to go and where to see nature at its best. These journeys appear generally in the Sunday newspapers and daily press and serve to admirable purpose.

However, if one living on the Gulf Coast will take a trip to any point in the interior just now the effort will be well repaid. This is the season of spring. Every scene is one of succeeding beauty and appeal and it is hardly necessary to go far to enjoy nature at its best these days.

The New Orleans Times-Picayune carried an editorial article a few days ago suggesting that Honey Island become a national reservation, in order that its native beauty be not only protected but perpetuated. It was noted that because of the soil and its peculiar location which provides for moisture of more than ordinary, certain trees and shrubs not to be located elsewhere are found to abound in this particular section.

Honey Island, besides its native beauty, has much history and romance that appeals. It was Maurice Thompson, novelist, who wrote the story of the "King of Honey Island," much of the locale of the story laid in Bay St. Louis but the Island was the main part of the story. With its treasures of loot and the fact that it served as the impenetrable hiding place for pirates and others. Honey Island has been the hiding place of many characters in history that will live because of its fastness. But it is this fastness, its wealth of wild flowers and tree growth that makes it worthy of protection and the article of the Times-Picayune is one that not only should be read but chambers of commerce and other organized bodies should take such step as to memorialize Congress to initiate the work necessary. It is both a splendid and timely suggestion.

With the purpose of drawing members of the Jewish faith into closer membership, a meeting is to be held in Jackson Sunday, April 10. Jews within a radius of 30 to 50 miles of Jackson are urged to attend the meeting, which will be addressed by several rabbis and leading Jews of this section.

VIEWS OF OUR NEWS

By Chicagoan

A Review of the News of Last Week's Echo.

Chicago, Ill., April 5. THE exit of the month may have fooled some of my friends of the Echo family circle; others may be astonished at recent developments in Washington. But you can't make me believe that April 1st fooled anybody. Looking back over the events of recent years, most of us kinds know what the day stands for, I know its my day and I'm ready to lead a movement to have it declared a national holiday, with the banks closed and everything. Some of the Congressmen mentioned in last week's Editorial on the Prohibition question should give me hearty support.

The distribution of surplus wheat by the Red Cross in the form of flour to the needy may be a said commentary on the management of our industrial and political organizations. But be that as it may, the list of names already in the hands of Mrs. M. Juden, Chamber of Commerce secretary, when the Echo went to press, shows that the flour will be welcomed indeed. The nation at large is fortunate in having the Red Cross as a distributing agency at this time. Hancock County is assured of the general high caliber of the organization because it knows the local Chairman, George R. Rea, will use every precaution to see that none of the flour gets into the wrong hands, and that all who are in need shall participate in the nation's gift.

Problems of another age were probably recalled at Gulfport Saturday night by Mayor Traub, Chamber of Commerce President Moreau, City Commissioner Ladner, City Attorney Genin, Geo. E. Pitcher and the others who attended the banquet honoring the arrival of the historic frigate, the Constitution. No doubt these Americans who devote so much of their time to civic endeavors of the present, found inspiration in their reflections. That a nation which had only such ships as the Constitution did not flinch when confronted with difficulties makes us just a little ashamed of ourselves, when we're tempted to despair in our present moment of passing stress.

No matter what form March took when making its departure, it certainly left behind it a little lamb, so I see by the Waveland news. My conclusion is shared, I know by Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Kehol. There's no question in their minds about the new little son, being just the most precious lamb in all the wide world.

With March went Easter this year, so early did the feast arrive. Now that Easter is past those who go on Saturday nights to Chas. A. Breath's "Soiree Nite Club" and ever so many others throughout the land, welcome the arrival of spring with gladness. Many have refrained from dancing during the six weeks preceding Easter. Later on in the season, when the weather gets real warm, there'll be other recreation more appealing than dancing. But now, in the glory of Spring with its budding flowers and growing grass, folks, everywhere begin to dance. The lambs, calves, and colts, not to be outdone by young humans, surprise themselves with the antics they perform on the greensward. The plants must be sorry they are so firmly rooted in the ground, they too must yearn for the dance.

Cards will be played at the homes of Jos. L. Favre and Mrs. E. J. Leonhard the coming week, where benefit parties for the Legion Auxiliary and King's Daughters hospital will be held. And as is the case in any of life's games, it will be found that not all could win. A combination of skillful playing with a little luck gave the high scores to those mentioned in this week's news accounts. Sometimes the low scorers are also mentioned, and that's a natural thing. But what about the majority who "also played"? Of course they do. There's a thrill in waiting to see what the next hand will be, and another in watching its play. You don't have to have high score, nor win a booby prize to know the joy of bridge or of life. Just to play the game for all that's in you is the greatest fun of all.

Easter ranks second to Christmas as a home feast, and says the "City Echoes" the home of Dr. and Mrs. D. H. Ward was one of the scenes of such home gatherings. The Easter guests, and their hosts didn't engage in the hilarity common to holidays like July 4th and others commemorating material episodes in the history of the world. Easter is more the day for family communion with the finest

PASSING OF PRETTY POLLY

By JOHN T. MEYERS
(For The Sea Coast Echo)

Half forgotten along with other relics of a fading generation recovered from a garret and offered to the highest bidder at a recent auction, an elaborately decorated wicker bird cage with the name "Polly" artistically interwoven above the door in honor of its once proud occupant brought to light an example of changing fancies.

For the parrot, a bird royally bedecked with iridescent splendor, and who not so many years ago occupied a prominent place in the household as a favorite pet, is now almost totally passe.

Search and inquiry at various bird dealers brought only a sad shake of the head. There is such a rare demand for these gaily-plumed birds that dealers do not consider handling the parrot a paying proposition, it was revealed.

One shopkeeper recalled a time when parrots were sold on street corners in San Antonio, and in towns along the Mexican border by Mexican peddlers. The Mexican "yellowhead" was the most popular specie of parrot in demand at that time. Trading in parrots reached its peak during the months of May and June, and large quantities were imported from Mexico during these months, it was said.

Today such a merchant with his noisy, chattering, parrot-filled perch would be quite a novelty. When asked for cause of the present day lack of interest in the parrot as a pet, apartment dwelling, restless jazz age, and the association of spinsterhood with ownership of this bird were advanced in turn by dealers as uncertain reasons for "Pretty Polly's" stepdown from the perch of popularity.

Many humorous stories still linger amid the shadows of Polly's past. Being loquacious by nature, this jabbering bird is accused of having told many tales out of school. Grandpa and Grandma will recall that many times purloined sweets from the pantry received just dues as Polly, ever watchful from the perch, would sound the alarm in convicting tones.

Possibly present day Johnnies and Marys grew up with a grudge against Polly, for such acts of habbering. That no one would admit, however, Polly had still another mischievous stunt. Bright and shiny objects such as jewelry and coins seemed to fascinate the parrot. Many were the hunt for these personal possessions as a result of the bird's playful pranks.

It is said, also, that Polly sometimes uttered words that were not exactly nice. It was rather embarrassing to have broadcast a selection of pet family profanity that, somehow, was usually reserved by the feathered rascal until a most inopportune moment.

But, after all is said and done, one wonders whether pretty Polly or Pat would be willing to exchange their unshackled freedom amid primitive surroundings or tropical forests for the elaborately decorated wicker cage that remained unsold at the auction . . . only Polly or Pat can answer.

Dry Law Costs Each Taxpayer $40 A Year

Washington, April 4.—Rufus S. Lusk, vice commander of the Crusaders, anti-prohibitionists, said Sunday in a formal statement that tax-paying head-of-the-family should charge at least $40 a year of additional levies under the new revenue bill to "the ignoble experiment."

Lusk said the taxpayer has been "butchered" "to make an Anti-Saloon League holiday."

His statement said: "If the government, instead of the underworld beer barons controlled the liquor traffic, at least one billion in liquor taxes—just about the amount of the new tax bill—would flow into the federal treasury. A tax on beer alone, which Congress itself could levy, would provide about half as much as this hodge-podge discriminating and annoying bill (the new revenue measure) will produce."

Down The Road To Evanston

Perhaps Harry Prizart is a good-dead-a-day man. Perhaps he has been greatly impressed by the parable of the Good Samaritan. Perhaps, perhaps, but just the same, he was arrested, for trying to be helpful. Prizart and James Kamen, both of Chicago, were brought into court in Evanston, charged with racing their automobiles through the peaceful suburb at the rate of forty-three miles per hour. "I didn't know what the speed limit was," explained Kamen. "And I," chimed in Prizart, knew what the limit was, and I was trying to catch up with my neighbor, Kame, to tell him he was breaking the law." "I never heard that story before," admitted the magistrate. And because there was precedent for no other action, the two travelers were each fined $7.

phases of human life manifesting themselves. Those who have enjoyed such pleasant family gatherings this past Easter tide no doubt reflect that although the days be dark, we have not been deprived of what are really the best things in life after all.

Thousands of Mothers are waiting each week for this hour...

It's THE HOUR when son or daughter or old friends visit her each week from some distant place by telephone. How happily she looks forward to this hour.

Thousands of families are doing this each week . . . enjoying a short, inexpensive voice visit by telephone with mother or other members of the family living in other cities. Because your voice is you over the telephone, such visits are just as personal as though you were in the same room.

Visiting loved ones at regular intervals by long distance telephone is a most pleasing thing to do. Try it tonight and see for yourself. It's surprising how little it costs to talk with distant friends.

A Guess That Has Cost $185,000,000

Some bad guessing in 1913 has since cost the people of the United States approximately $185,000,000. The guessing was embodied in the Railway Valuation Act of that year.

The principal guesses were: (1) the railroads could be valued in two years; (2) the total cost would be less than $3,000,000; (3) the railroads would be shown to be greatly over-capitalized; (4) the government would be enabled to regulate rates so as to yield the railroads a fair return; (5) the users of transportation would save around $1,000,000 a day.

Here are the corresponding facts: (1) the valuation, in progress eighteen years, is still incomplete; (2) the cost to the taxpayers has been more than $40,000,000 and to the railroads—more than $145,000,000; (3) the value of the railroads has been proved to be substantially greater than their capitalization; (4) the railroads have not been allowed to earn a fair return; (5) no public saving has resulted.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

STANISLAUS COLLEGE ECHOES

Last Saturday Stanislaus invaded Gulfport High School for the Literary Meet. A very large representation was sent, and we'll maintain that it was a very formidable group (in appearance) that ascended the steps of that institution of learning—despite the absence of a great number of horn-rimmed glasses.

Those who took part in the tests were: John Hickman, English Composition; Walter Judlin, Advanced Algebra; Warren Aylesworth, Chemistry; Bascomb, Talley, Plane Geometry; Duncan Harding, Technical English; John Bop, Physics; Leo Blaize, Modern History; John Price, Ancient History; Melvin Peyman, 1st Year Algebra; J. C. Roland, Type-writing. The results of the tests will not be announced until a week from the coming Saturday, at the Regional Field and Track Meet at Biloxi, but it seems to me that there should be at least one first place among this number, at least, according to the law of Averages.

Tuesday night the Stanislaus Serenaders played for the Gulf Coast Sodality at a dance given at the Knights of Columbus Hall. The dance seemed to have been quite a large affair and certainly gave evidence of being a success. The Serenaders are now "Augmented" by the addition of two new pieces, and are willing to contend that they are among the finest on the Coast. The music was enjoyed by everyone Tuesday night, which is encouraging, to say the least.

The track survey we have been having for the past week brings to mind the many, many stars of yesteryears, Nat Yeager, "Hippo" Phillips, Funchie Reich, Nick Lala, Bill Stack, "Big Zeke," the Jaubert Brothers and a host of others.

Dees has gone into the marathon—a gab-fest. Talley tried the 440 in thinking but gave up on the first lap. Jesse still holds the record for out-distancing any one in saying nothing. Breauz still holds down a safe berth on luckies. Curro would be in all events if a bustle was required. Jarreau takes all comers when tree jumping or we rather say stump-jumping. Soto is the best diver in the college, he has rather an unique way of clearing the bar for the high jump. Falchetto has a piece of advice for all track candidates, but needs none. Millet would be a great runner if all things were "square."

"Ty" Cobb has the makings of a sprinter, if he can just get his legs to behave. "Ambition" keeps too serious; he should lend a piece of his frown to Red Reine. Bruzeau is the boy with the sleek hair comb who leads the drummers—if that were a track event. Dear Richard has all the form but his execution is sadly missing. Hermisino, leads all his class around the track, his tongue lead the way if his feet do not. Cubby should be used to the track, he seems to have track on the brain, but it seems to have no turns nor any mate. Popeye takes after his name sake, blow me down but he can run like an old time fire engine going to a false alarm.

We do not want to say without any quip, that some of these boys have shown some wonderful form and if they can be induced to stick to track, they are certainly going to win some medals. Newman, Reinhard, Richarme, Parker, Fabacher, Judlin, Daigle and Verlander are some high jumpers. We have no good sprinters, but certainly Garcia, Derby, D. Roth, A. Kidd, Cascio, Jordan, Welbourne, Castro are there in the making. Just persistent practice and consistency will bring about results.

WE WONDER WHY—

Breaux and Reine and Toarmina don't get lost out in town on Thursdays? Sammy Reaux looked so well when he returned though he claimed to have been sick? Somebody hasn't already discovered what a good track man Dees is? Cecil is getting quiet of late? Talley ought to be christened the "little songbird." Hickman looked more or less harassed when he returned from that English test? Judlin isn't worrying? Ducasa thinks it is time for him to start giving the ladies a chance? Ambition is such a real "pal" to everyone? Kevin and Dees are on much better terms since Easter? Hickman likes to osleep in automobiles? A lot of fellows are only going to join one fraternity when they go to college? Bruzeau never had a drum lesson? Alamo says "You're a sweet kid—but you got to die?" Castro seems to get a big laugh out of this little saying of Alamo's? Ducasa didn't break two records while he was at it last Saturday? Spring is here, and nobody seems to be doing anything about it? The Seniors seem to be desirous of WORK AND PLAY AT S. J. A.

"WORK AND PLAY"

"Work and Play" we call our column in this paper but it looks as though the "work" part of it is demanding a greater share of attention these days at S. J. A. Of course we understood the reason and the need of all this work, but it does seem hard at times, particularly after such lovely Easter holidays made a little longer than usual this year, one extra day, Tuesday, thrown in for good measure. We're ready and even anxious to tackle you through—so come on old "Washington Exams", at least you hold one great consolation fr when we're through with you we know "vacation" awaits us just around the corner.

SODALITY SPONSORS EASTER EGG HUNT.

The Easter egg hunt given by the Sodality last Friday afternoon proved a very successful and highly enjoyable affair.

The hunt was carried on in two separate sections of the yard, one being reserved for the little "tots" and the other for the grammar and high school girls, for as one of the larger girls remarked—"It wouldn't have been fair for us—really young ladies you know—to compete with those babies."

The eggs had been hidden in abundance. Judge for yourself how abundantly, when three girls each found thirty seven eggs apiece! And how they were hidden. We must congratulate the committee in charge of the hiding. They surely did their duty well.

Lovely prizes were awarded the finders of the most eggs, the gold egg, the silver egg and the little chocolate pig—really though the nicest prize should have been given to the discoverer of the last mentioned pesky little animal, for it took fully a half hour to extricate him from his bed of weeds and leaves.

Delta Lizana won the beautiful entrance prize; Lorraine Quintini the gold egg and Doris Hauser the silver egg. The bobby prize a cunning little rabbit with the longest trembling ears—was supposed to have been awarded to the girl who found not a single egg, but as there was no such unlucky participant the prize was changed to a consolation prize and drawn for by all who had won no prizes. Three amusing egg races of different kinds followed the hunt.

Besides affording a lot of fun to all who took part the egg hunt will increase the Sodality Mission Fund by something in the neighborhood of ten dollars.

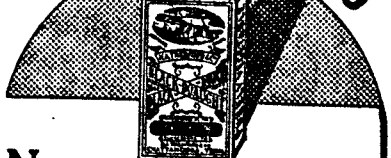

S. J. A. TO BE REPRESENTED IN TENNIS TOURNAMENT.

For the first time in its history S. J. A. will be represented in the girls' Tennis Tournament to take place in Biloxi, Saturday, April 9. Lois Wolfe is our entry for the singles and Joyce Wolf and Alice Camors for the doubles. Good luck to you girls. We'll be pulling here for you.

FOUR FROM S. J. A. TAKE GULF COAST LITERARY EXAMINATIONS.

Four rather shaky and trembling high school girls left the Academy last Saturday morning to drive to the Gulfport high school where they went to take the examinations given by the Gulf Coast Literary and Athletic Association. The four returned at one o'clock greatly relieved if not elated after their morning's experiences. S. J. A.'s four representatives for the Literary Examinations were, Alice Peeney who took chemistry; Effie Graham Power, English Composition; Frances Scafide, Cicero and Evelyn Nix, American History. Whether they win honors or not remains to be seen, but win or lose these girls are deserving of much credit for the splendid work which they have done in their respective

TRACK AND VOLLEY BALL NOW HOLD SWAY.

Since the close of the Basketball season a great number of our girls have evidenced their interest in track events. Many are out every afternoon practicing at both running and jumping.

The Gulf Coast Track Meet is to take place at Biloxi Saturday April 16 and S. J. A. is to be represented in the various events for girls. The list of entries has not yet been sent in and the contestants will most likely be decided upon in the next few days.

A post holiday surprise was the transformation of one of the outdoor basketball courts into a volley ball has been claiming the interest of both the high school and grammar grade girls. Teams are soon to be formed and real contests will be held later.

KILL VOLSTEAD, SAVE COUNTRY

New Orleans, March 28.

Editor, New Orleans States.

Dear Sir: Men and women of America, you are taxpayers. You pay for the farce of prohibition, not only in increased taxation, but in increasing the present period of depression, and in the increased contempt for law from all.

A Senate committee, on March 19, favored the return of four percent beer, in a report declaring that an amendment of the Volstead act, to legalize the sale of four per cent beer, under federal restriction, would end prohibition's reign of terror, stimulate business and employment, and enrich the treasury.

Act now, and assert yourself, by writing and wiring your representatives and senators that you want a bill passed to amend the Volstead act, that will permit the sale of wine and beer, by licensed businesses, and the sale of other hard liquor through a government department regulated by the attorney-general and the secretary of the treasury.

In using the advantages as cited by the committee, I do not use all of them as they are only based on the return of four percent beer.

The advantages of a bill to amend the Volstead act are:

1. It will promote temperance, strengthen the law, decrease crime and generally contribute to the public welfare.
2. It will give employment to between 500,000 and 1,000,000 persons within a reasonable short time.
3. It will assist agriculture in providing a market for certain products of the farm.
4. It will furnish a source of revenue for the American and foreign governments through taxes, import and other duties not included in a general license.
5. It will give the government an annual income of double the anticipated revenue as outlined in the committee's report on beer only, in other words, a revenue of $800,000,000 based on a tax of two cents a pint or quart, would result in a revenue of $1,600,000,000, which would go a long way in balancing the national budget and at the same time, solve the problems of taxation.
6. In making it possible for licensed businesses to sell wines and beer at meals and in original packages to take home, a government-controlled department for the sale of hard liquor for medicinal purposes would make the enforcement of law in the amendment simple by making the penalty for any one guilty of selling wines and beer, otherwise than allowed by license, five years in a state or federal prison.

7. Anyone, driving an automobile while under the influence of alcohol, shall be punished by one year in a state or federal prison.

Now, it is up to you to act. Write and wire your representatives and senators. You elected them to act for the people and not against them.

The Declaration of Independence was adopted July 4, 1776, read the first, second, third, fourth, fifth, sixth, eighth, tenth, and eleventh paragraphs and then act. You are Americans. Look at Brisbane's Sunday editorial of March 20. You are not going to change this unless you act, wake up and let the politicians know you are running this country. Don't let a bunch of grafters and hypocrites tell them what to do.

Make them make new laws that will make this really a land governed by the people and for the people, laws that will furnish revenues and that can be enforced and at the same time give us the rights that the constitution of the United States of America intended for us all to have.

If I Were Not So Lazy.

If I were not so lazy,
I'd sing a song to you;
But you would call me crazy
And swear my song was sleazy,
You'd do it, dainty Daisy,
As fresh as morning dew.

If I were not so yellow,
I'd woo you, Daisy dear;
But such a modest fellow
Must seek a fortune teller,
Till Cupid the compeller,
Inspires with courage clear.

If you were not so naughty,
With all your saucy charms,
If you were not so haughty,
I'd clasp you in my arms.
And while the stars were peeping
To tattle and to tease,
I'd hold you in my keeping,
A captive on my knees.

You darling little doubter,
You only laugh at this;
But Love is sometimes stouter
And sometimes floors the flouter,
A most romantic trouter,
I yet shall catch a kiss.

If I were not so silly,
And you were not so wise,
I'd try to be so trilly
My song would win the prize,
The prize you have to offer,
Your love alone for me,
You splendid little scoffer,
I come to claim my fee.

I come with love for money,
Bright coinage from above.
Don't frown and call me funny,
I'm tougher now than Tunney,
We're bound to barter, honey,
So seal the deal with love.

THE ECHO'S COOKING CLASS

(For The Sea Coast Echo)

Years ago only the cooks of royalty and the very wealthy were skilled in the art of cooking. This they did to perfection. The great crowd of people knew only one way in which to prepare their plain fare. Today the modern housekeeper with a little trouble can learn new methods of making the everyday food more attractive and beneficial. Get your family interested in some new dishes. There's nothing like interest and zest for the jaded appetite.

Chicken Tamale Loaf

½ cup Wesson oil
1 medium onion diced.
2 cups cooked corn
2 cups canned tomatoes
1 medium chicken cooked tender.
2 cups cornmeal
3 beaten eggs
1 cup stuffed olives
1 3-4 cups chicken stock
1 teaspoon curry powder
¼ cup chili powder
Salt and pepper.

Heat the oil in a frying pan, add the onion and cook until yellow. Add the corn and tomatoes, let simmer for 10 minutes. Remove the meat from the chicken and cut fine. Add the corn and tomato mixture to the chicken, then the cornmeal, beaten egg, olives, chicken stock, curry and chili. Mix thoroughly and pour into buttered baking pan. Bake in moderate oven 40 minutes. Serve hot.

Dried Beef and Cheese.

1 cup dried beef
3 tablespoons butter.
2 tablespoons flour
2 eggs
1½ cup milk
½ cup grated cheese.
Fry beef by boiling a few minutes. Drain off water, add butter, flour and milk. Stir until smooth, then add cheese and well beaten egg. Serve in a fluffy well seasoned nest of mashed potatoes.

Baked Bananas.

1-3 cup brown sugar
1 tablespoon melted butter
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon orange rind grated
1 tablespoon lemon rind grated
6 bananas.
Remove skin from bananas. Put in shallow pan. Mix the remaining ingredients and baste bananas with mixture. Bake 20 minutes in a slow oven, basting while baking. Serve with ham or roast beef.

Spinach Loaf

1 quart cooked spinach
1 cup cracker crumbs
2 hard boiled eggs chopped
2 tablespoons butter
1 small onion diced
1 cup diced bacon or ham

A Bear's Clever Trick.

By Robert Pollard.

One bright morning in May I received a letter telling me that two of my best friends were going out with a hunting party—they were going to hunt bears.

About a year later I received another letter telling me of their experiences, as follows:
"One day we cornered a bear and it went into its cave. We staid there for two or three days hoping that the bear would come out. Finally we went into the cave. We followed it for about a mile. It had all sorts of twists and turns but we found no trace of the bear. We were all scared because we did not know where the bear was. At last we started to go back but one member of the party saw a stream of light on our left and stopped us. It was a passage we had not seen, so we followed it. It had a square opening at the end where the light shown in. We went out into the open—it was broad daylight and we were out in the world again. We could well see that the opening had been dug by claws so we took it for granted that the bear had dug it. We said it was a clever trick.

A Come Down

Father—What! You're going to marry that insignificant little Percy Richmond? Why, you used to say you'd never marry a man less than six feet tall.

COMMENT ON SPORTS

U. S. Female Stars Looking At Tennis Odds and Ends Some Baseball Prospects.

That the United States will have to beat the Canadian track and field team in the coming Olympics and that Germany's squad will be much in the running is the opinion of G. H. Vreeland, head coach of the U. S. Women's team.

In 1928 our team was second to Canada. Nine members of the present year and at least two appear to be the best bets. Lillian Copeland, of California, ranks with the best available discus and javelin throwers. Four years ago she was second in the discus throw and recently tossed it 115 feet. The javelin is a new event on the program but she recently flung the spear 107 feet 9 inches.

Jean Shiley of Philadelphia, is now rated as among the world's best feminine high jumpers. She ranked fourth four years ago but recently made a new American indoor record, five feet three and one-half inches. Others who are expected to be on the squad include Mildred Didrikson, the one-girl track team from Texas and Stella Walsh, of Cleveland.

The U. S. Lawn Tennis Association has named its selection committee to choose the team to represent this country in the 1932 matches for the International Tennis trophy. Berenon S. Prentice will lead the group, which is expected, will select the team from a squad of players reserving the right to name players previous to the various ties to be held. So far, the consensus of opinion is that Vines, national champion, Frank Shields, George Lott, Jr., and John Van Ryan will represent this country abroad in the event that it is not eliminated in the American zone.

Four matches are to be played and it is likely that a half dozen or more players will be used. The first match with Canada will probably be played at Chevy Chase, Maryland, the latter part of April.

One is somewhat surprised to hear that Ellsworth Vines, Jr., national singles champion, was beaten by Martin Buxby at Houston, Texas. Buxby, a star of the University of Texas, is the Florida state champion and while Vines, ranked No. 1 in the United States and defending champion, was expected to win the 20-year old sophomore from Miami, managed to mop him down, after losing the first set.

The Chicago Stadium announces a ten-round bout between King Levinsky and Mickey Walker, former middle-weight champion, on April 29. Both boxers will receive thirty per cent of the receipts. Following his staggering defeat at the hands of Billy Petrolle when the referee halted the bout to save him from further punishment, Bat Battalino has been advised by the New York Boxing Commission to take a sixty day vacation. Battalino took a bloody battering but showed great courage and was expected to be matched with Canzonieri for the lightweight championship in May. Johnny Golden won the North and South Open Title in an extra 18-hole match with Craig Wood. Gar Wood's mark of 111.712 miles per hour has been recognized by the International Motor Yachting Union as the world's record for power boats. The previous record belonged to Kays Don who made 110.223 miles an hour on Lake Gard, Italy last July. Wood made his record at Miami Beach on February 5.

The Pittsburgh Pirates, with George Gibson making another debut manager, is not the team it used to be and will be something of a doubtful contender. Of course, "Pie" Traynor is as good as they come at third base and Lloyd Waner will shine in the field alongside his brother, Paul, who may come into his former great stride.

The Pirate infield has Thevenow, good at short but weak at the bat, Suhr at first and two youngsters, with some experience, fighting for second. Tony Piet seems to have the edge.

Behind the bat Gibson is satisfied with Finney, Brace and Bill Brenzel, a rookie. Out in left field, Adam Comorosky appears to have the edge over several competitors. The pitching staff includes Kramer, French, Brame, Swetonic, Spencer, Wood and a couple of youngsters.

The Phillies look strong enough to worry the best clubs in the National League and expect to land in the fourth place, at least.

The team is showing more speed and aggressiveness, varying the slugger monotonously with a batting and base-running and boosting a talented hurling staff, including Collins, Jim Elliott, Bage and Dudley. This Elliott, a big southpaw, won 19 games for his sixth place club last year. Manager

SPORTS AT STANISLAUS

Stanislaus has become "Track Conscious." Every evening about the campus the casual observer would be very much surprised by the monstrous turnout of this age-old sport. As the old Greeks and Romans used to strain their very souls just for the twig of green foliage since the first Olympiad, so now these young Americans show forth their very best in the hopes of attaining some signal honor or accomplishment for their school.

Since last Sunday afternoon a "survey meet" has been taking place, the prime purpose of which being to find out which boys are best qualified for the various events. Sunday afternoon everyone was out in the yard throwing the shot, broad-jumping, and high-jumping. Monday afternoon the discus was thrown, and the hundred-yard and two hundred yard dashes were run off. Tuesday the 440 and the 100 yard hurdles took place. Points are being given for the first twenty in each event, the winner securing 20 points, the second 19, and so on. Time and space does not permit that we publish the names of all those placing in these events, but here are the winners of these first eight. Anthony Garcia won the hundred yards with a time of 10-9. Kidd won the low hurdles with a time of 17-9 and also the 440 yards with 50-3. Artigues won the broad-jump with 17 feet one inch and Verlander won the high jump with 5 feet 8 inches. A. Garcia won the 220 yard dash with a time of 23 seconds.

Last Saturday our two track aces, Linam and Ducasa, travelled to Tulane for the Interscholastic Relays. For the first time in the history of Stanislaus every man on a track team has set a new record. Linam set a new record for the shot with 48 feet 1 inch. Ducasa set a new record for the mile run with a time of 4-43. Congratulations.

Some of the records for the past three days are rather illuminating and although we do not give all the names there will suffice. Certainly, we would like to have all names in but space will not permit. 100 yard dash—A. Garcia, Artigues, Verlander, Richarme, time 10-5. 120 low hurdles—A. Garcia, Artigues, Verlander, time 17-9. High Jump—Verlander, Kidd, Judlin, Garcia, Richarme, Newman, 5-6. 220 dash—A. Garcia, R. Roth, D. Roth, Richarme, Verlander, time 23-1.

Shot put—Richarme, Daigle, Weatherford, Loch, distance 38-6. 440 dash—Kidd, Garcia, Artigues, D. Roth, time 50-3. Broad jump—Artigues, A. Garcia, Verlander, Falchetto, Kahalley, distance 17.

Mrs. Bob Henley had as her guests over the week end, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Henley and family.

Mr. C. B. Dix was over inspecting his place.

Behind the bat is Virgil Davis, McCurdy, with a recruit, Al Todd, performing very promisingly.

In the infield, which appears to be the backbone of the defense, is "Slugging" Don Hearst at first, Malton on second, Bartell at short and Captain Whitney at the hot corner. While the reserve is not exceptional, it is at least average.

Over in the American League, the boys will have to quit kicking the Red Sox around. Years ago they used to look down on any proposition less than the top rung but after a long rest, on the bottom rung the team is in a fighting mood and expects to better its record of last year when a strong finish put them in sixth place.

Manager "Shano" Collins has surrounded himself with some sprightly youngsters and figures that his boys will give the other clubs a fight any day in the year. In the infield, with Van Camp on first, John Dasheill, a Texan, apparently on second, Warstler on short and the veteran McManus on third.

In the outfield is Rothrock, Tom Oliver and "Clean-Up hitter" Earl Webb, with several likely prospects in the offing.

Behind the bat, Charlie Berry will bear the brunt with Connelly and probably Storie on hand to help him out. In the box, Danny Macchayden will lead the procession and attempt to beat his 16 winning games. Last year, Russell Lisbee, and Kline are right-handers, and Durham, Wetland Michaels are southpaws. In the outfield, there is a relief-man, Wiley Moore and Pete Donahue who is staging a comeback that looks like the real goods.

Sen. Harrison Opposes Full Payment Of Veterans' Bonus Certificates

The pinch of national economy brought a declaration Tuesday from Senator Harrison, of Mississippi, ranking Democrat on the finance committee, against full payments of the veterans' bonus certificates.

Citing the two billion dollar deficit in prospect for the government this year and the pending bill to raise new taxes, Harrison said: "I regret that existing conditions impel me in the interest of economy to oppose the legislation at this time."

The stand taken by Harrison, coupled with the known view of other Senate leaders, is believed to doom any prospect of enactment into law of the bonus payment measure.

In his statement the Democratic financial leader of the Senate pointed out that the one-billion dollars of the four billion dollar government budget now goes to the relief of war veterans.

CONGRESSMAN RUSSELL ELLZEY, 7TH DISTRICT REPORTS FOR DUTIES

After Rejecting The General Sales Tax, The House Proceeds to Enact a Budget-Balancing Revenue Bill—Garner Emphasizes Importance of Latter.

By Representative Robert S. Hall.
(For the Sea Coast Echo)

Capitol Hill, April 4.
SWINGING back into its regular gait after the general sales tax had been rejected, the House proceeded to enact a budget-balancing revenue bill with astonishing celerity. Generally, the substitute plan which had been drafted by a Ways and Means subcommittee was adopted in toto.

Speaker Garner took the floor and emphasized in a stirring address the vital importance of balancing the budget. When he called upon the members, after the manner of the evangelist, to indicate their attitude toward such a program, all except about twenty stood up. From that time on, there was hardly any question about the ultimate outcome.

While an emergency selective sales tax approximating 290 millions of dollars was invoked on some twenty articles of merchandise, regarded as luxuries or semi-luxuries, the entering wedge of a permanent general sales tax was deflected. The list includes automobiles, mechanical refrigerators, radios, firearms, sporting goods, candy, chewing gum, cosmetics, jewelry and so on. A levy estimated to yield 75 millions was assessed on stock market transactions. Additional revenue to accrue from increased income, estate and gift taxes will approximate 230 millions; boosting the first class postage rates from 2 to 3 cents will account for 135 millions, while miscellaneous taxes will produce the rest. Administrative changes, adjustments in the postal service and savings in appropriations are expected to aggregate 415 millions. The anticipated amount of emergency revenue is ample to balance the Budget and a little besides.

Another Muscle Shoals bill has been introduced in the House by Representative Hill of Alabama. Senator Norris has also reintroduced his resolution providing for government operation of the Muscle Shoals project. The House measure authorizes the President to appoint a board to lease the Muscle Shoals properties, except power-generating plants, locks and navigation facilities, primarily for the production of fertilizers to be sold to farmers or their authorized representatives at cost of production plus a profit of 8 per cent. The amount to be manufactured is contingent upon the market demand. The maximum term of the lease is 50 years and the contract is to include a recapture clause. Leasing preference is to be given States, and non-profit organizations owned and controlled by farm association. In case the board is unable to lease the fertilizer plants within a certain period, it is empowered to operate them.

While the blooming of the Japanese Cherry trees is not officially on the house legislative program, the graduate of Mississippi College, and mirth the gorgeous spectacle. Should there be a continuation of the prevailing warm weather, government horticulturists anticipate the coming out of the single blooms by April 10. The double blooms usually put in their appearance about two weeks later. Thousands of visitors annually plan their trek to the Capitol City to concur with this blossom festival. For weeks anterior to the event, countless inquiries pour in from all parts of the country.

Major Calvin Wells of Jackson, Miss., paid me a cordial visit last week during his sojourn in the Capitol City.

Congressman Russell Ellzey Reports For Duties.

Russell Ellzey, newly elected Congressman from the 7th district of Mississippi, has just taken the oath of office, and is now performing his regular duties.

He has been assigned to the following committees, viz.: Labor, Civil Service, Claims, and Education. Russell Ellzey was reared near Wesson, Mississippi, and for twenty years has rendered a public service for the counties of Copiah and Lincoln. By profession, he is a school man.

With the cooperation and support of his home people he has led in building the Copiah-Lincoln Junior College—an institution rated among the very best in Mississippi, and one that offers training at a minimum cost. This session the Copiah-Lincoln Junior College has enrolled 472 students with 325 of that number taking college work. Russell Ellzey deeply appreciates the support in his recent campaign given him by his two home counties—Copiah and Lincoln. In these counties he received 82½ per cent of the total vote cast on March 15th. He is a mason, Baptist, graduate of Mississippi College, and a family man.

Of Keys And Teeth And Many Things

There is but little doubt that Mrs. Alex Murray had good reasons for confiscating the keys to the family automobile. But those reasons are not part of the story of what took place in Maywood, Chicago Suburb, after Mrs. Murray took possession of the keys.

It was then Mr. Murray went into action. He took his wife's false teeth and held them as hostage pending the return of the keys. It looked for a time as though Mr. Murray really held the key to the situation, keen strategist that he is.

But that Clarence Ressler had to walk in from his house across the way. As a self appointed arbitrator of the dispute, he adjudged that Mrs. Murray was right on all counts. To enforce his decision Mueller to whom the latest news from the front was told. The officer telephoned Justice Betts, and because it was in the nighttime, an informal session of court was arranged in the Betts home.

Everything is settled now. Mrs. Murray gave back the keys. Her husband gave the teeth back. Ressler was told to go back home and to keep out of family rows in the future.

31 BANKS REOPEN AS SOUTH SHOWS NEW CONFIDENCE

"Stabilization Has Set In," Says Mississippi State Superintendent.

The cotton, tobacco, and potato belt of the South has reopened 31 banks this year and has begun its spring plowing with renewed faith in the soil.

Mississippi has reopened nine banks since January 1 and J. S. Love, state superintendent of banks, says their capital structure has been improved. "Confidence has been restored," he says. "Stabilization has set in and the road ahead, though tedious and slow, is leading toward normal times."

Only 33 of 75 banks which were closed in the 1931-1932 period still are inactive in this state. Love expects three of these to be reopened soon. Deposits of 42 which have been reopened during the period total $11,247,332.

The nine which have been reopened this year are state banks and are located at Canton, Ruleville, Batesville, Pope, Prentiss, Drew, Sunflower, Silver Creek and Pascagoula.

Arkansas has reopened state banks at Forrest City, Jasper, Dover and Russellville and national banks at Jonesboro and Searcy since January 1. Total capitalization of the state banks is $185,000.

Five North Carolina banks have been reopened since last August, four of them this year. Their total resources approximate $1,177,000. South Carolina has reopened three and another is scheduled to resume business today.

Five Louisiana banks with deposits totaling $2,243,000 have reopened this year and another is expected to resume activity soon. The reopened banks are at Opelousas (two) Breau Bridge and Abbeville (two).

J. S. Brock, Louisiana's bank commissioner, says the federal Reconstruction Finance Corporation has contributed material aid to banks in his state.

One Florida state bank has been reopened. Georgia also has reopened one.

Virginia reopened a national bank at Luray this year. Thirteen were reopened in 1931.

Alabama and Tennessee have not reopened any banks since January 1 but H. H. Montgomery, Alabama superintendent, says four or five may be reopened in his state this year. Tennessee is making an effort to revive a bank at Martin.

There have been comparatively few bank failures in the South in 1932 and business leaders agree that the esprit de corps of the people has improved. The lethargy of drowsy winter, when many of the farmers spend lots of time whittling and talking politics and hard times, or hunting their lands, has been thrown off. The land awakens quickly to a touch of warm sun and spring is a season of vigorous activity.

Illinois Central Again Initiates Travel Bargain Days

On April 22, 23 and 24, Illinois Central will make a sweeping reduction of 70 per cent and 60 per cent in round trip fares between all points on its 7000 mile system, J. V. Lanigan, Passenger Traffic Manager announced today.

On these three dates fares will be slashed to about a penny a mile for travel in chair cars and coaches and less than two cents a mile in Pullmans and parlor cars, the round trip tickets having a return limit of May 2nd.

"Similar system-wide rate reductions during 1931 were tremendously popular and numerous trade associations reported a very appreciable increase in business directly traceable to the travel bargains," Mr. Lanigan stated.

He predicted an even greater popularity for this April travel bargain with a resultant stimulus to business in the 14 states served by the railroad because the low rates will make it possible for representatives of business firms as well as individuals making family and personal visits to plan trips previously deferred because of past conditions.

This Is Not Baloney.

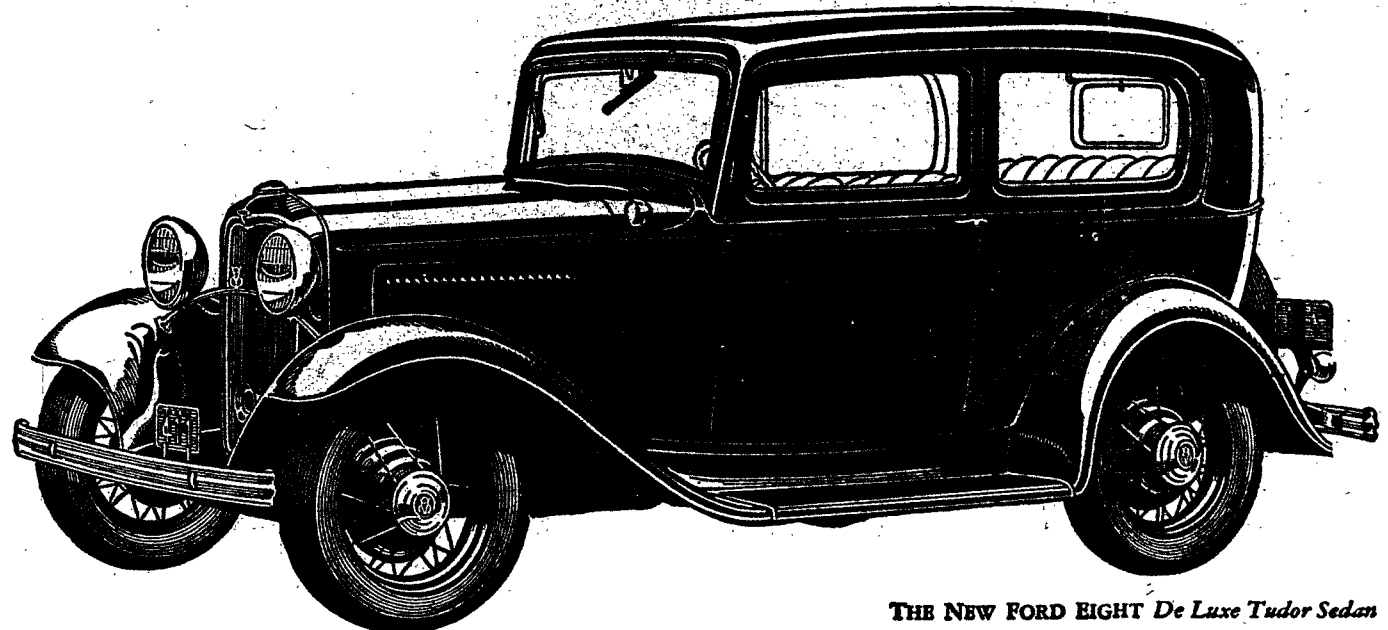

Like pork sausage? If you do, your taste differs from that of Fred Trumbull, who formerly lived at the boarding house at 6068 Hermitage Ave., Chicago.

Every blessed night of his life, it seemed, Mrs. Schultz, the housekeeper, would serve Fred pork sausage. But last week the worm turned. He made passes at Mrs. Schultz with a butcher knife, and she had visions of becoming sausage herself. She screamed. The police arrived in time. "200," said Judge Sbarbaro.

"And if I don't pay," queried Trumbull. "A day in jail for each dollar," replied the judge calmly. "Any pork sausage in that jail," asked Fred. "None," replied the judge. "Ome," said Trumbull cheerfully to the bailiff, "let us depart."

Draw Your Own Conclusion. Butler (to new cook)—Mind you, I'm not saying anything about your cooking, but there's a terrible run on stock and crackers in the dining room tonight. Humorous.

WILL ROGERS DEPLORES WALL STREET AS GUIDE OF DESTINY

Famous Humorist Says Too Many People Use Ticker Tape To Measure Actions In Own Private Lives.

If people would get out of the habit of living by the stock ticker, there would be fewer causes of depression, is the opinion of Will Rogers, world famous screen comedian, humorist and cowboy philosopher. New York especially, according to the noted wit, is guilty of guiding its destinies by the rise and fall of the stock market.

"Personally I can't see how a stock can be worth $100 at ten o'clock in the morning and only $50 at three in the afternoon," he said. "If the basic value is correct, there is no reason for such a fluctuation."

Rogers believes that the reason New York has felt hard times more acutely than any other city in the country is entirely due to the stock market habit.

"When I was in New York recently I talked to the head of one of the largest theater ticket brokerage offices," he said. "He told me that he could tell how the market went during the day without ever looking at a stock report."

"If it's been a good day, he told me, 'our sales reflect it to a remarkable degree. If stock prices have gone down, we'll have a big bunch of theatre tickets left over.'"

"In my humble opinion such conditions reflect upon our intelligence. There is no rhyme or reason for letting our lives be swayed by the activities of a bunch of professional gamblers."

"When I was on Broadway, very few actors knew anything about stocks—or cared. They regarded Wall Street as another world."

"Nowadays, actors spend more time trying to figure out how to make a dollar or two without working for it than they do on their own profession. Every actors' club in New York now has its stock ticker, and many who should be rehearsing and trying to improve themselves, spend the day hanging over it like it was something important."

Rogers has had many chances to "clean up" on stocks. He has received many inside tips from big business men who wished to befriend him. But he insists that he never has bought a share of stock on any exchange.

Regarded as one of the wealthiest actors in Hollywood, Rogers has a reputation of being as canny as a Scot in business matters. But his investments have been in real estate, and not in fluctuating stocks.

In his latest picture, "Business and pleasure," a Fox Films production, Rogers is a big business man on a holiday abroad. Like most business men, he cannot pass up a chance to turn a pretty penny when it comes, and thereby hangs the main thread of this delightful comedy, adapted from Booth Tarkington's best selling novel, "The Ptolemaic."

David Butler, responsible for Rogers' most successful picture to date, "A Connecticut Yankee," also served as director of "Business and pleasure," which comes to the A. & G. Theater, Sunday and Monday.

CURRENT COMMENT

Soviet Machine guns mow down peasants who resist the destruction of their churches. Laying aside the religious aspect of the case, the incident suggests several things. It seems that modern Russian rulers find that the severe procedure of the old order comes in handy today; and, further, a person is entitled to be lieve that when the truth is known the Russian populace is not to be credited with swallowing the Soviet propaganda hook, line and sinker.

Nature has rude, cruel and unusual ways of disposing of the excess population. In Chicago, a man nearly lost his life when his whiskers caught fire, and in Arkansas several were spared to death by flying planks torn from a lumber pile during a tornado.

The Census Department has furnished some interesting figures regarding the shifting of the population. About half the people born in Nevada reside elsewhere. More than half the residents of Wyoming have moved in. California is the state which keeps the greatest number of persons born within its borders. One man in every five does not live in his native state. Although the pioneer spirit has died out, improved means of transportation have made it easy for a person to move from state to state, and the migration disclosed by the Census statistics will tend to keep down the spirit of sectionalism, and promote a wholesome interchange of ideas and knowledge.

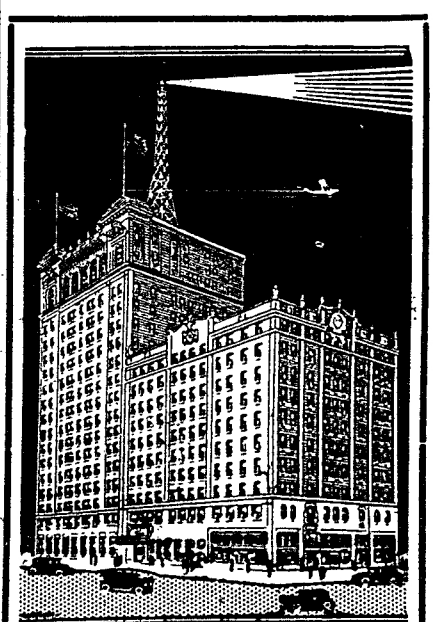

In fixing the responsibility for dirty motion pictures, weight should be given to a statement by the President of the Allied States Association of Motion Picture Exhibitors, who says in substance that independent theater owners have to buy and display the films that the producers are willing to release to them.

The prize fighter closes his official career at an early age. A newspaper report on the health of Jim Corbett brings to mind the fact that such a man ever existed. Only the white haired can remember when Corbett knocked out John L. Yet

Mr. Corbett is only 65.

It looks as though Cambodia were one land that has not been hit by hard times. The four hundred widows of the late king of that country will be pensioned by the government.

Fear of the future does no good, and may actually get one into trouble. A new York prisoner lost his nerve, pleaded guilty, and was sentenced, while the jury was considering his case. The members of that body state informally that they had concluded to acquit him.

Melvin Traylor Asks Curb on Mounting Cost of Government

Chicago Banker Shows Need of Caution in Spending Taxpayers' Money

Would Reform Tax Methods

Speaking before the International Chamber of Commerce at Washington, Melvin A. Traylor, President of the First National Bank of Chicago, said in part:

Another field in which those responsible for leadership must do some hard, sound thinking if we are to avoid disaster is that of public expenditures.

In this country, government is supposed to abide with the people, and yet we know that in no other field does leadership exert so great an influence upon the thought and action of the people as in the political sphere.

In the fifteen-year period, from 1913 to 1928, our national income was estimated to have increased from about $4 1/2 billion dollars to $11 billion dollars annually, or 136 per cent; in the same period the expenditures of all governmental divisions in the United States have increased from a little less than three billion dollars to more than 12 1/2 billion dollars, or approximately 300 per cent.

It is perfectly true, of course, that insofar as the Federal Government is concerned, the major part of the increase in that direction is accounted for by our participation in the World War; but it is interesting to observe that for the fiscal year ending in 1928, Federal expenditures were only 8 1/2 per cent of the combined outlay for all political administration in the United States.

Local Expenditures Big Item
Figures are not available for the years following 1928, except for the Federal Government, whose expenditures increased 10.7 per cent for the fiscal year ending in 1929, and 6 per cent in 1930. It may be assumed that like increases have occurred in other political subdivisions of the country. For the year ending in 1928, the cost of administration of State Governments amounted to 14 1/2 per cent of the total; of the remainder, over 54 per cent went to sustain local governments.

Naturally, those responsible for government desire to give their constituents the finest educational facilities, the best roads, streets, public parks, playgrounds, and other facilities obtainable, but, after all, there is no denying the fact that expenditures for such purposes bear a very close relation to the individual, because they mortgage his future earnings for consumable and rapidly deteriorating goods.

Every bond issue for the public welfare is an installment debt on the earning capacity of every individual and enterprise in the community affected. Not only does it involve installment amortization of the debt itself, but a constantly increasing charge for maintenance and upkeep if the improvement is to be preserved against early deterioration and quick ruin.

Most of the taxing machinery of the country was created at a time when the present volume of public debt was not thought possible, and it is, therefore, inadequately and ineffectually adjusted to meet the emergencies of the present burden.

The consequences is that in almost every major political subdivision of the country certain classes of wealth escape taxation, or pay little, while other types of property are charged with an unbearable obligation.

The duty of leadership, therefore, in this field is two-fold. First, and most important of all, a greater degree of caution must be exercised in the creation of government obligations; and, second, an immediate reform in taxing machinery must be undertaken.

Effects of "Federal Aid"
In connection with the creation of indebtedness, it is high time that those responsible for State administration consider the pernicious and seductive influence of so-called Federal aid for public improvements.

In many instances, this policy of public expenditure approaches closely to political bribery and in almost every case, lends itself to political log-rolling, the surrender of state sovereignty, and a gradual impoverishment of fiscal units. Moreover, we have said nothing of the proposal and promotion of undertakings which in many instances are not justified by the necessity of the situation or by the utilization of the facilities contemplated. Let there be no mistake in this respect.

Let us face the facts. Unless there is a return to sanity in the matter of public expenditures, default and repudiation of public obligations cannot be much longer avoided.

OF SOCIAL INTEREST

(By Our Society Editor)

Miss Del Bondio's Lavish and Beautiful Affair—An Evening at "Blue Heaven" Home—Complimenting Miss Marie E. Bertrand.

Complimenting her friend, Miss Marie E. Bertrand, Miss L. C. Del Bondio on Saturday evening of last week entertained forty guests at a dinner-bridge at her charming and hospitable home, "Blue Heaven," on the beach at Pass Christian, the home made all the lovelier and inviting because both Miss Del Bondio and her dearest friend, Miss Bertrand, reside there.

Miss Bertrand's birthday had occurred during Holy Week, hence the party was given a week later. For the occasion the interior of "Blue Heaven" was decorated throughout with the color motif of blue and white. The flowers were Easter lilies, set about in great bunches and set in baskets here and there in artistic accentuation. The baskets were of various shapes and carrying their white flowers were of shades of blue.

A five-course dinner was served and the menu was such that all of the food was in blue color, from the cocktail that preceded to the very last dessert which was in the white contrasting lily—a full-sized Easter lily fashioned of solid cream.

Proceeding the dinner, at the request of the hostess, a Bay St. Louis gentleman friend delivered the toast of the evening, paying tribute to Miss Del Bondio, to the hospitable and beautiful home and last, but no means least, to the honoree of the evening, the charming and loved Miss Bertrand.

Miss Bertrand has many friends both in Louisiana and Mississippi. She is popularly known along the coast and many presents from friends of a coast-wide territory were sent her in loving testimony of friendship and admiration and sincerity.

As not only a friendly gesture but as a more intimate attestation, gentlemen friends all wore blue ties and in many instances blue shirt bosoms peeped forth from within the confines of the coat. Covers for card tables were blue and the back of every playing card carried the same hue.

To each guest at table were presented a bunch of white sweet pea to the ladies, tied with maiden hair fern, and to the gentlemen a large white carnation.

Following the dinner, auction bridge occupied the attention of the guests for the balance of the evening. The contest at each table was spirited. The forty guests were bridge players in true sense, and, this, too, made the affair all the more interesting and zestful.

To the victor belong the spoils, and these were unusually handsome. Silver articles were presented and varied and unusually handsome were the silversmith's art so beautifully displayed while presentation boxes served to hold the various trophies.

For the occasion Miss Del Bondio was attired in a new blue creation of chiffon trimmed with real (white) lace, which she wore most becomingly, with a corsage of white carnations and sweet pea.

Miss Bertrand was gowned in a heavy lace dress of blue, with a lovely corsage of white carnations and sweet pea and jewels.

Miss Hazel Abbley, who assisted in receiving, was attractive in a dress of blue flat crape trimmed with lace, and a corsage to match.

Miss Jane Lang, also assisting, becomingly wore a flowered blue chiffon of modern and attractive fashion.

The charm and grace of these ladies easily conspired to make this one of the most delightful of the many events that have taken place at Miss Del Bondio's "Blue Heaven" home.

To make others happy is quite an attribute. This virtue, with many others Miss Del Bondio possesses, and the titular designation of her home as a place suggesting heaven and general happiness is best attested to by the fact that she lives her very life to this aim and to reach such a goal. Miss Del Bondio's charities are numerous and scattered in different parts of three States. Her social activities are confined to her home, "Blue Heaven," and fortunate are those who come under its roof.

The following named guests present were noted:

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Miller and Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Christovich of New Orleans, La.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. G. Moreau, Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Buckley, Mr. and Mrs. K. W. Pepperdine, Mrs. E. J. Leonard, Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Evans, Mrs. Edmund Fahey, of Bay St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. Ambler, Miss Elena Patenotte, Miss Marjorie Knost, Miss Katie Fitzpatrick, Miss Claire Knost, Miss Jane Lang, Miss Edna Knost, Miss L. C. Del Bondio, Miss Hazel Abbley, Miss Marie Bertrand, Mrs. C. D. Taylor, Miss Eunice Holliman, Mr. Elwood Abbley, Mr. Hugh Fitzpatrick, Mr. Bernard Knost, Mr. R. V. Abbley, Mr. Clyde Lundy, Mr. Donald Sutter, Mr. Frank Wittman, Mr. Fred Penner, of Pass Christian, Miss.

YESTERDAY.

You stabbed my soul with the words you said,
Though you meant most kind, I know.
The sunlight out of my soul-life fled
And my dreams were dust and my hopes were dead
And the world was a world of woe.

I had built us a castle with golden spires
In a land where the sirens sing,
With high halls jeweled with dream desires
And rich with the music of rhythmic lyres,
Like the waft of an angel's wing.

I had delved us fountains with dimpling sprays
In a garden of gardens and lawns,
The gladsome haunts of the fair-haired fays
And the sprites that sport in the woodland ways
And the blythe-souled satyrs and fauns.

I had fashioned a bower of roses red,
Still bright with the shimmer of dew.
With snow-white blossoms, I had softly spread
A fragrant couch for the curl-crowned head
And lily-white heart of you.

With the gift of a Midas, I had touched to gold
Every trace of the base in your fate.
I had framed you a future with triumphs untold
And every delight of the blythe and the bold,
Unmixed with the griefs of the great.

I had found you, a child, in the valley at play,
Content with the charms of the plain.
I had plead with your spirit to wander away
To the radiant heights where the stout-hearted stay—
But my words of entreaty were vain.

For you stabbed my soul with the words you said,
Though you meant most kind, I know.
The sunlight out of my soul-life fled
And my dreams are dust and my hopes are dead
And the world is a world of woe.
